About this Month: This will be such a fun month filled with lots of hands-on activities. We are planning to bring night crawlers into the classroom for the children to investigate. They will be trying to measure them using rulers and tape measures. They will also be writing down the numbers as they measure (math) and learning some new measuring vocabulary. We are getting some caterpillars to watch as they get into cocoons and then turn into butterflies to release later if possible. We will also be watching for our carrot seeds to sprout, once they sprout (and grow) we will prepare them and eat them. We will also be going on bug hunts to find bugs to study, hope we find some interesting ones. If you happen to find one that is interesting, please send it in for us to check out as well. Thanks for all you do! Be on the lookout for a note about the Parent Committee Meeting sign-up.
